Academies Trust

Welcome back! We hope you all had a really fantastic half term and a well-deserved rest. It has been great to see so many smiley faces back in school this week and see some of the fantastic learning which has been taking place across the year group. This week is RE week and the children have been exploring the question, 'Is being happy the greatest purpose in life?' We've had lots of interesting philosophical discussions and learnt lots about both Buddhism and Christianity.

In RE, we made our own stained glass window Beatitudes using coloured tissue paper. What do you think?

Polite Reminder:

Don't forget to wrap children up warm over the coming weeks. Class windows will be open to keep classrooms well ventilated so it's best they wear plenty of layers and always have a coat in school.

In our music lessons this week we have begun to play the steel drums and have been learning simple notation to help us play together in rhythm.

Please encourage your children to participate in the Maths Week England TTRS competition which is taking place next week. Practice makes permanent!

Coming up next week! We start our new topic for Autumn 2: Water, Water Everywhere!
