

YEAR FOUR

This week...

Our Egyptian workshop days at Norwich Castle Museum were a fantastic way for the children to draw all their learning in this topic together.

The children took the opportunity to examine ancient artefacts, spent time exploring a day in the life of an Egyptian through drama, made sparkly Egyptian collars and consolidated their knowledge about the process of mummification.

Last week...

We enjoyed a visit by Anne from the Swaffham Museum who talked to us about Howard Carter, who is famous for finding the tomb of Tutankhamun. Howard spent part of his childhood living with family in Swaffham and the museum has a dedicated gallery to his life and work as an Egyptologist. The museum could be an interesting place to visit during the half-term break.

A Big 'THANK YOU!' to everyone who joined us for our 'NSPCC Numbers Day'. It was lovely to see so many families having around the school grounds trying to find and then solve the various maths questions. There are photos/videos in our website Gallery from the day, so please do take a look.

Next Week ...
